Back-to-School Job Gains Drive Arizona's Economy; Construction Down, as Unemployment Rate Remains Unchanged at 3.7 percent

Arizona's seasonally adjusted unemployment rate was unchanged at 3.7 percent in August. At the national level, the August seasonally adjusted unemployment rate remained the same as in July at 4.6 percent.

Arizona's economy grew by a seasonally expected 37,700 non-farm jobs in August, largely due to the start of the academic year. The private sector gained 8,600 jobs, while government grew by 29,100. Local government education added 30,300 jobs. Seven of eleven major industries reported employment gains in August. Two of these reached new records: professional and business services and educational and health services.

Construction trimmed 2,600 jobs in August. This loss was considerably greater than the average for the month of August. Construction has now decreased employment by 5,100 jobs since March of 2007. The majority of losses in this industry in August were in specialty trades (-1,700). Construction of buildings was down by 700 jobs while heavy construction pared 200.

Financial activities employment dropped by 1,900 in August. All but one reported sector had losses within this industry. The finance and insurance sector

(-1,700) experienced the bulk of the decrease. Within this sector, credit intermediation and related activities displaced 1,800 jobs. The loss in the financial activities industry is the result of activities in the high risk mortgage business.

Manufacturing lost 100 jobs in August. Durable goods pared 100 jobs, while nondurable goods was flat. Within durable goods, fabricated metal and aerospace products and parts each had gains of 100 jobs. Computer and electronic parts decreased by 100.

Government had a seasonal increase of 29,100 jobs. State and local education added a combined 30,700 jobs. The majority of government jobs gained was in local education (+30,300). Federal government in the state was up by 600 in Arizona.

Educational and health services employment rose by 4,400. A gain of 2,200 occurred in both educational services and in health care and social assistance. The monthly increase was largely seasonal.

Professional and business services had an increase of 3,600 jobs, with every reported sector posting gains. The largest gain was in the administrative and support sector (+3,100). Within this sector, employment services was responsible for an increase of 1,800 jobs. Professional and business services' growth has been slowing, yet remains strong at 5.6 percent over-the-year.

With a seasonally expected gain of 2,100 jobs, the leisure and hospitality industry showed signs of returned strength after posting earlier seasonal losses. The increase was due to growth in arts, entertainment and recreation (+500), and in food services and drinking places (+2,000). Accommodation (-400) was the only sub-sector with a loss.

Trade, transportation and utilities experienced a net gain of 2,400 jobs. This gain was just above the 10-year average for August. Retail trade showed above average growth for August by adding 2,200 jobs. The general merchandise sector gained 700 jobs. Back-to-school sales were the likely catalyst. Motor vehicle and parts dealers added 200 jobs. The building materials and garden equipment dealers sector gained 300 jobs. The only reported sector with a loss in August was in food and beverage stores (-200).

Information showed a loss in August of 400 jobs. The only reported sector, telecommunications, gained 100. This represents the information industry's first drop in employment since March. Nevertheless, 1,800 jobs have been pared since August 2006.

Other services gained 600 jobs after a loss of 900 in July.

Natural resources and mining added 500 jobs. This industry has added 1,400 jobs since the beginning of the year. In August, metal ore mining was at its highest employment level since March 1999.

In conclusion, despite some notable job losses, Arizona's economy experienced a fairly good month in August with a seasonally expected gain of 37,700 nonfarm jobs. The relatively low unemployment rate of 3.7 percent held steady in August, though this may change in the coming months in light of some recently announced layoffs. As expected, the typical seasonal increases occurred in both private and public education. Seven of 11 major industries added workers while four trimmed employment. Two industries reached record levels: professional and business services and educational and health services. The largest losses in August were in construction and financial activities, the result of a weakening housing market and events in the mortgage industry.

Under Titles VI and VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 (Title VI & VII), and the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 (ADA), Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, and the Age Discrimination Act of 1975, the Department prohibits discrimination in admissions, programs, services, activities, or employment based on race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, and disability. The Department must make a reasonable accommodation to allow a person with a disability to take part in a program, service or activity. For example, this means if necessary, the Department must provide sign language interpreters for people who are deaf, a wheelchair accessible location, or enlarged print materials. It also means that the Department will take any other reasonable action that allows you to take part in and understand a program or activity, including making reasonable changes to an activity. If you believe that you will not be able to understand or take part in a program or activity because of your disability, please let us know of your disability needs in advance if at all possible.
